Press Release

Urgent Steps Agreed to Boost Fire Safety at SITE Industrial Area

Grow Safe to modernize system for 4,000 industrial units

Karachi: A delegation from Grow Safe – Pakistan's leading Health, Safety & Environment (HSE) company – met Abdul Rehman Fudda, newly elected President of SITE Association of Industry and prominent industrialist, at his office.

With more than 4,000 industrial units operating in the SITE Area, the two sides deliberated on the increasing need for comprehensive fire safety measures. Key focus areas included fire load calculation, fire risk assessment, electrical safety survey, Occupational Safety & Health (OSH), and fire safety training, as well as the development of a robust emergency preparedness and response framework.

Mr. Fudda, who is also the CEO of leading apparel company Textile Channel, appreciated GSPL's initiatives, particularly in strengthening fire protection standards across industrial facilities. He reaffirmed his commitment to promoting effective implementation of fire safety protocols among both member and non-member organizations operating within the jurisdiction of the industrial area. He assigned key responsibilities to the organization for supporting fire safety initiatives across SITE industries, under the supervision and facilitation of the Association.

Speaking on the occasion, Saad Abdul Wahab – CEO Grow Safe – emphasized the importance of adherence to fire safety standards and related legal compliance to ensure uninterrupted industrial operation and minimize associated risks. He termed preventive measures and a structured safety system essential for sustainable industrial growth.

On the occasion, he presented a bouquet to Mr. Fudda as a gesture of goodwill, and extended his wishes for a successful tenure.

The meeting concluded with a shared resolve to enhance industrial safety standards and work collaboratively toward building a safer and resilient industrial environment in Karachi.

Thankfully,
